VADE MECUM FOR THE DEAN

Now that my days as Dean are drawing to a close, I have occasion to reminisce on the 30 odd years that I have spent at Hahnemann.

When I first came to 15th and Vine in 1951, there were three red brick buildings heavy with Victorian overtones. The only fairly modern building was the Klahr Building (which still stands as part of the New College Building). The hospital was already old having been built in 1928. The total budget of the Medical School could not have exceeded $500,000. Charles Brown was Dean and his avowed goal was to create the best basic science departments in the city. He did an excellent job for he recruited Ray Truex, in Anatomy, Amedeo Bondi, in Microbiology, John Boyd, in Bio-chemistry, John Gregory, in Pathology, and yours truly in Pharmacology. John Scott was already at Hahnemann as Professor of Physiology and undoubtedly was the senior scientist of those times. In the clinical sciences, Charles Brown was Professor and Chairman of Medicine and as such was an outstanding clinician. He recruited an excellent staff which consisted of Alfred Lupton, Foster Murphy, Otto H. Janton, Donald Fitch, James Donaldson, Daniel Marino, plus many others who were already at Hahnemann such as George Geckler and Lowell Lane both very competent cardiologists. In Surgery, Bill Martin was Chairman and he had a superb clinical staff including Charles Bailey, of cardiac surgery fame. There were, of course, many other outstanding clinicians of that era in the other specialities. Hahnemann was always considered to be a strong clinically oriented school.

I was charged by Dr. Brown to get rid of Homeopathy which I promptly did by simply eliminating it from the standard curriculum of pharmacology. The students at Hahnemann seemed to me to be less bright and less aggressive than I was used to in New York, but they certainly were more gracious and friendly. In those days which were post-war, we enjoyed more mature and dedicated students than in more recent times. As I leaf through old year books, I can recall so many individual students who made a most favorable impression. It is surprising to estimate that in all my years at Hahnemann, I have in one way or another had some contact with over 4,000 medical students.

My years as Chairman of Pharmacology (1951-1968) passed by quickly and we made progress in establishing a modern, scientifically oriented department. Perhaps the greatest achievement of all was taking over the editorship of Drill's Pharmacology in Medicine, a text with international reputation. However, we made credible contributions to the pharmacology of cardiovascular, analgesic, and psycho-pharmacologic agents.

In 1967, when Dr. William Kellow resigned, (who had replaced Dr. Cameron as Dean), I was asked to be Acting Dean. I assumed the job with considerable reluctance because I knew it meant less contact with the students and very little time for laboratory and the clinic. Charles Cameron was then the President and Charles Paxson was the Operations Officer. An active search was instituted for a new Dean. About midyear, I decided to put my hat in the ring and run myself for this office. Mostly, I was disappointed in the caliber of candidates which were coming through. To my surprise, I was offered the Deanship in 1968. I accepted with a great deal of trepidation. Little did I know what was to come!

My first years as Dean up till 1971 were constructive and fruitful because Dr. Cameron, the President, was an understanding person. We made great progress in planning and implementing the New College Building and made plans for the student housing facility (Stiles Hall). Because of the general impression that there was a shortage of doctors, it was relatively easy to deal with legislators at both a state and federal level. Each year, the income to the school increased and more faculty could be hired and programs proliferated. It was about this time that the outreach programs were conceived and a concerted drive was made to fund them. Dr. Moyer was Chairman of Medicine, and he in addition to being a great supporter of Continuing Education and Symposia Programs, was interested in large scale efforts outside the institutional boundaries.

AS A FELLOW IN PHYSIOLOGY AT HARVARD.

AS CHAIRMAN OF THE PHARMACOLOGY DEPARTMENT AT HAHNEMANN.

In 1971, Mr. Wharton Shober, became President of Hahnemann. It is an understatement to say that he was a controversial and extraordinary character. The challenge made by the Board of Trustees to Mr. Shober was to arrange for the financing of a new hospital. This was not an easy task at a time when construction funds from the Federal Government had dried up. It became obvious that the only path was that of a municipal bond issue. Mr. Shober created many unfortunate waves, the most disastrous of which was the carbon dioxide programs for the therapy of opiate addiction. This generated much bad publicity for Hahnemann. Yet despite this, a new hospital was financed and money to support this project was obtained from the Federal Government. After many fiascos, a new and very practical hospital was financed, built and dedicated in 1979. Mr. Shober finally resigned in 1977 and Dr. William Likoff, an eminent cardiologist, became President. During these trying Shober years, my role as Dean was mainly to attempt to preserve the forward impetus of Hahnemann as an academic and scientific institution. In all, I think that as a faculty and student body, and under the leadership of the present administration, we have been extraordinarily successful on all fronts; scientific, educational and in health service. We have advanced and competed successfully with our sister institutions. Today Hahnemann Medical College with an annual budget of over $30 million, stands as one of the formidable institutions of the North Eastern group of Medical Schools. The next decade will prove our worth and hopefully a new Dean and many new faculty will build on the foundations of the past. Students and graduates may well be proud of our past and present achievements and our future promise.

To all graduates, I wish you the best of all good fortune and accomplishment. You may rest assured that we will do all in our power to enhance your careers for in your success rests the future of the institution.

JOSEPH R. DI PALMA, M.D.

BREAKING GROUND FOR THE NEW COLLEGE BUILDING.

AT THE DEDICATION OF THE NEW HOSPITAL.

THE PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

This, the Class of 1981, is the 134th that has been graduated from Hahnemann. A product of its time and the individuals comprising its ranks, it has established a remarkably positive profile through a host of attitudes and acts. All of this came into being in a moment of great institutional stress, when Hahnemann's survival was seriously threatened and time-honored human values were sorely tried. The successful pursuit of a medical education in an atmosphere of uncertainty is not a simple task. To do so with dignity and honor is an exceptional accomplishment.

The Class of 1981 also is distinguished because it is the last to be graduated during Dr. Joseph DiPalma's stewardship as Dean of the Medical College. This is a noteable mark, for Dr. DiPalma has fulfilled so many roles with distinction while serving our interests that he could easily serve as a role model for the physician this institution strives to create.

Days have fused into a distant past quicker than you ever believed possible. Now you must look to what will be and how well you are prepared to meet and shape that future. If you regard the training this institution has provided as a mere preparation for the means to earn a living, the time spent at Hahnemann has been misapplied. To the contrary, if the medical education which you have received has increased the capacity for enlarging intellect, then the startling advances in the health sciences that are just ahead will be absorbed, mastered, and applied with utmost effectiveness.

Congratulations on your accomplishment. All of our hearts are with your endeavor.

WILLIAM LIKOFF, M.D.

TO: THE GRADUATING CLASS FROM: THE ASSOCIATE DEAN

My friends, your yearbook editors have asked that I address you concerning the happenings at Hahnemann during the current academic year. It is very difficult to pick the most important events in a year when the Phillies won the World Championship, the Eagles lost and a new conservative wave headed by President Reagan has swept the country.

At Hahnemann, three major events took place. First, the class of 1981 graduated. Second, a sweeping new curriculum change was instituted. And third, Dean Joseph DiPalma, who has led the Hahnemann faculty for 14 years, retired.

Best things first. The graduation initiates the next step in your education and I believe that you are exceptionally well prepared and will bring honor and respect to yourselves and to your school. You are a great class and are prepared for a great future. Congratulations.

The curriculum change to the two years of preclinical and the two years of clinical is in line with the conservative trend throughout the country. As an Alumnus, I know you will give all possible support to the school and to its students to assure that future Hahnemann students receive training as good as or better than yourself. It is my own sincere intent to continue to work for the welfare of students at Hahnemann and I hope that you will do so also through your support of the Alumni Association.

Now, for the momentous event of the retirement of Dean DiPalma as Vice President and Dean in June 1981. Joseph DiPalma has dedicated more of his highly productive life to Hahnemann Medical College than any other person that I can recall. He came here in 1951 as Professor and Chairman of the Department of Pharmacology, and built it into one of our strongest teaching departments. It remains so today.

In 1967, rather reluctantly I believe, Dean DiPalma became Acting Dean and subsequently Dean of the medical school. This strong man succeeded, with the support of his faculty, in resisting an attempt to relieve him of his duties when Mr. Shober was President. He subsequently became Vice President for Academic Affairs as well as Dean. He has carried out these strenuous double-duties ever since.

The Dean is the leader of the faculty. Joseph DiPalma has never forgotten that. He has always interceded for the faculty and has led them in the direction he felt best, both for their welfare and the overall welfare of the school. He has been a strong and very human leader in a very lonely position. His energy and his dedication to his position and the school as a whole has been outstanding. His strong, wise advice will be dearly missed. I believe that the best thing that could happen to Hahnemann Medical College is for it to obtain another Dean almost as strong and almost as dedicated as Dean DiPalma. I doubt, however, that we can ever attain another Joseph R. DiPalma.

Godspeed Joe.

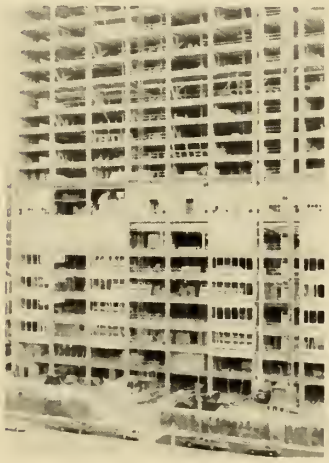
ORIENTATION

So, you wanted to be a doctor. You worked hard to get to Hahnemann and you knew what lay ahead. You'd have to work a bit, but everything was made. Soon, you would be out saving lives and helping people. After all, once you got accepted to medical school, there was nothing to stop you. Or, so you were told — and some of you believed it!

Orientation was an exciting time of new experiences. Everyone got a chance to meet their fellow classmates in an environment of congeniality that included luncheons, a wine and cheese party, a beer party and even a belly dancer. In fact, the dean designated this class "the class of the belly dancer". So, med school wasn't going to be all that bad.



GETTING ACQUAINTED

But then the work began as the "impossible" goals of the courses were laid before you. Many long hours were spent in the library or the MDL trying to learn the volumes of available knowledge. There were lonely nights trying one more time to "get this down". And then, all shreds of curriculum were destroyed as courses were planned only hours before they began, and a six week extension was added to the six week extension. You found yourself asking, "Do I want to be a doctor?"

Of course, Hahnemann was not all work and loneliness. You shared the fun of moving into your first apartment. There were beer parties, Christmas parties and even a Halloween party.

ON THE FLOORS

Despite extension after extension, Core I finally came to an end. Core II promised to be enjoyable, as much because of the change as the fact that you were in the clinics at last. You looked forward to patient contact but dreaded the new responsibilties: IV's to start, bloods to draw, rounds, rounds, rounds, and cutting the suture too long or too short. The hours were tiring, the days long. There were affiliates, both good and bad. You got to know different classmates, Sayre, and the Jersey shore. You were also the last class to experience the "wards" at Hahnemann — the ideal locale for this no longer glamourous profession.

Whereas the Core I show ("Hard Core") featured such greats as the Kalia pidgeon, Ambromovage toilet and the infamous Angstadt 500, the Core III show ("Core-nal Knowledge") reminded you of macho surgeons, the perfect pathologist, Dr. Bennett's shoes, and the student who didn't get his match form in on time and . . .

FROM THE STAFF

The creation of Medic 1981 will have taken about 16 months - from the initial signing of contracts to the finished product you hold in your hands. In that time, many goals were set - some came to fruition, some changed, and some fell through altogether. To produce even a mediocre book requires a considerable amount of work - and even more luck. The job is made all the more difficult because only in the most ephemeral way can we ever really be considered "together as a class." Each graduating senior has a different idea of what it is to have experienced the Big H. It was the staff's intention to produce a work which each of you, even if only in a small way, could identify with. To the extent that we failed, I apologize.

I would like to use the remaining space to thank some of the people who made this book possible. First, to Dr. DiPalma, for all the assistance he has given this and past yearbooks, this volume is dedicated to you. To Dr. Bennett's office, the Alumni office, Barbara Williams of the Hahnemann Archives, Bill O'Brien of Josten's Yearbook Company, all our patrons and advertisers, many thanks. And, last but not least, to the rest of the staff - I hope the results are worthy of your efforts.

'Cold hearted orb that rules the night,
Removes the colours from our sight.
Red is grey and yellow white,
But we decide which is right.
And which is an illusion?
Pinprick holes in a colourless sky,
Let insipid figures of light pass by,
The mighty light of ten thousand suns,
Challenges infinity and is soon gone.
Night time, to some a brief interlude,
To others the fear of solitude.
Brave Helios wake up your steeds,
Bring the warmth the countryside needs.

Breathe deep the gathering gloom,
Watch lights fade from every room.
Bedsitter people look back and lament,
Another day's useless energy spent.
Impassioned lovers wrestle as one,
Lonely man cries for love and has none.
New mother picks up and suckles her son,
Senior citizens wish they were young.
Cold hearted orb that rules the night,
Removes the colours from our sight.
Red is grey and yellow white,
But we decide which is right.
And which is an illusion???.

I came to medical school with the intentions of being able to help my future patients physically, psychologically, and if they were interested, spiritually. All of my medical courses would enable me to help them physically. Through encouraging and listening to my patients, I would be able to help them psychologically. But after doing much searching during my first year at Hahnemann, I came to the shocking realization that I couldn't help myself spiritually, let alone any patient of mine.

I found this out by reading and contemplating on the spiritual themes in the Bible. Even though I went to church weekly and considered myself religious, I found that I really didn't have a relationship with God. I was still separated from him by my own rebellious nature. For example, in Isaiah 53:6, I learned that, "All we like sheep have gone astray, we have turned each one his own way . . ." Though I didn't feel particularly "sinful", this verse and others showed me that I was guilty of the kind of pride which led me to insist on keeping control of my own life. This was a subtle rejection of God. With this understanding that I was sinful and separated from God, I felt very lonely and gloomy, and I was afraid of dying for the first time in my life.

I also realized that because of God's holiness, no matter how much good I would do as a doctor, it could never take away my sins and bring me into a relationship with God. But the Bible also showed me that Jesus Christ could take away all my sins and enable me to have this relationship with God. Jesus did this by dying on the cross, which the rest of Isaiah 53:6 prophetically states, ". . . the LORD (God) has laid on him (the Messiah) the iniquity of us all." I realized that Christ's resurrection was a proof that he conquered sin and its resultant spiritual death.

One day during my second year at Hahnemann, I asked God for his forgiveness and accepted Christ's death as his personal payment for my sins. I understood that I needed to receive spiritual life from God, to be "born again" of his Spirit. So, I asked God's Spirit to enter into me. Immediately, I began to have a peace of mind that I was spiritually alive; I no longer feared death. I also found that the mental weight from the guilt of my sins was removed and I had a real joy in simply knowing God intimately. I don't want to leave anybody with the false impression that in becoming a Christian, all my problems have gone away or that I have joined some unrealistic "happiness cult". I have found that being a follower of Christ is not easy, but in some ways is hard. The greatest joy, though, stems from having a personal, practical, daily relationship with Jesus. If you know Jesus personally, you can understand what I mean.

If these are new concepts to you, I encourage you with all sincerity to think about the following verses:

"For God so loved the world that he gave his one and only Son, that whoever believes in him shall not perish but have eternal life. For God did not send his Son into the world to condemn the world, but to save the world through him. Whoever believes in him is not condemned, but whoever does not believe stands condemned already because he has not believed in the name of God's one and only Son."

"At one time we too were foolish, disobedient, deceived and enslaved by all kinds of passions and pleasures. We lived in malice and envy, being hated and hating one another. But when the kindness and love of God our Savior appeared, he saved us, not because of righteous things we had done, but because of his mercy. He saved us through the washing of rebirth and renewal by the Holy Spirit whom he poured out on us generously through Jesus Christ our Savior so that, having been justified by his grace, we might become heirs having hope of eternal life."
Titus 3:1-7

my salvation comes from him.

he is my fortress, I will never be shaken.

It involves, I see now as I come to put it together, the four ancient elements of the Greeks: mud and the fire within it we call life, vast waters, and something — space, air, the intangible substance of hope which at last proves unanalyzable by science, yet out of which the human dream is made . . .

Forward and backward I have gone, and for me it has been an immense journey. I can at best report only from my own wilderness. The important thing is that each man possess such a wilderness and that he consider what marvels are to be observed there.

BOMBS

Though busy in many devices,
Let us remember the sky,
How even with least attention
The wind continues to eddy,
Brooding, restless, devious,
Raising up mountains of uncertainty,
Gathering from most neglected regions
Every discontent,
Poising continents of angriness
Above our oblivious heads.
And in any inopportune moment
The monster will smash down upon us,
Striking out with malignant ferocity,
Grim irrational reaper,
Pavor nocturnus from the sky,
Surprising
And humbling
Even the most wary.

TO THE FACULTY

Last, but not least, the faculty. Though often the butt of our humor, it should not be forgotten that they give their valuable time to teach us the art and science of medicine. And, though we often disagree with them, they try as best they can to prepare us for the long future ahead. For better or worse, what we are and will become has been considerably influenced by them.

To all the faculty members we have known through the past four years, we offer our sincere thanks.

A center for learning. As well as healing.

At Mercy Catholic Medical Center our responsibility to the community does not begin and end with patient services.

We believe a major medical institution has a responsibility to utilize its resources in more ways than one. That's why our Fitzgerald Mercy and Misericordia Divisions train hundreds of medical students, residents, nurses and allied health specialists every year. Because quality patient care results from quality education.

The Center provides undergraduate medical education and clinical training for over two hundred third and fourth year Jefferson medical students each year.

Our graduate medical education programs provide studies in Medicine, Surgery, Obstetrics/Gynecology, Psychiatry, Pediatrics, Pathology, Radiology and Nuclear Medicine.

Each year we train over three hundred nurses from Gwynedd Mercy College, Villanova University and Widener College.

Our allied health education program, through a unique affiliation with Gwynedd Mercy College, provides training in Cardio-pulmonary Technology, Nuclear Medicine Technology, Radiation Technology, Radiologic Technology, Respiratory Therapy, Medical Records Technology and Medical Laboratory Technology.

Mercy Catholic Medical Center is more than a great health institution. We're a great teaching institution as well. And it's all part of our program of building health care around you.

Sister Marie Lenahan, R.S.M.
President

Isn't it paradoxical that a hospital can shape itself by its ability both to change and to be unchanging? At Mercy Catholic Medical Center, we have grown and expanded to become the largest Catholic Medical Center in the Tri-state area, while holding steadfast to our philosophy and purpose.

We are a Catholic institution committed to life and to personalized, compassionate care of the sick. Mother McAuley, the woman of vision and spiritual insight, the foundress of the Sisters of Mercy who own and operate MCMC, directed us over one hundred and fifty years ago to dedicate our time, talents and energies to the best possible care of the sick and dying To insure the continuance of the highest professional and ethical standards of medical care, she instructed us to find qualified concerned personnel who were willing to work with us to alleviate the pain and suffering of others in our corporate witness to Christ's love

If you are a nurse or other health care professional and would like to investigate career opportunities at Mercy Catholic Medical Center, please write to our Director of Personnel.

Come to St. Francis General!

- You will work in the largest hospital in Western Pennsylvania as a Resident in one of nine major specialties.
- St. Francis General Hospital is known as a large hospital with a small hospital feeling.
- You will find the kind of concern and cooperation that translates into good patient care and good post graduate education - our major considerations at St. Francis General Hospital.
- Pittsburgh is a city that's known as a friendly place, no longer renowned for its smoky skies.
- You will work hard; but no one in Pittsburgh is too busy for the Steelers, Pirates, symphony or shows.
- Come . . . and be a part of a tradition to be proud of.

One Tune — The All Too
Memorable

"At The Mayo"

I was doing transplants,
Total bowel resections,
Amputations hourly.
I could work with one hand,
I was really macho,
Every nurse was hot for me.

At the Mayo!
That's where I did my surgery.
At the Mayo!
They made a doctor out of me.
At the Mayo!
I'd go back there and work for free.
At the Mayo!
At the Mayo!

Refrain (repeat two times)
We want you.
We want you.
We want you for a Bilroth II.

In to work at seven.
See the patients post-op.
Try to kick them out of bed.
Run back to the the O.R.
Cut up someone's thyroid.
Stop a couple G.I. bleeds.

At the Mayo!
That's where I worked on L.B.J.
At the Mayo!
A-P resections every day.
At the Mayo!
The only place I could get xxxx.
At the Mayo!
At the Mayo!

Repeat refrain.
